Syllabus for Course on: FAMILY AND KINSHIP

Offered by: Department of Sociology
Course number: Soc/104 (Compulsory Course)
Semester: I
Credits: 4
Open to: All MA students

Course Outline

This course provides a brief account of the classical approaches to the study of family and kinship. It then exposes the student to newer theorizations that have expanded the scope of the field, notably on the relationship between the domestic and macro politico economic spheres on the one hand, and the notion of personhood on the other. It also focuses on some of the distinct aspects in the Indian context. Finally, it discusses some contemporary issues that pose a challenge to the normative model of the heterosexual, biologically based nuclear family.

I. Introduction:

The domestic sphere and principles of kinship

The relevance of kinship in contemporary societies

II Theoretical Perspectives:

Overview of theoretical developments

Descent theory

Alliance theory

Recent theorizations and their implications

III Kinship and Family in the Indian Context:

Marriage patterns and ideologies by region and religion

Forms of patriarchy and dominant ideologies institutionalized within the family:

Dowry, Bride-Price, Sexual Abuse, Domestic Violence

Representation of the family in popular culture

IV Contemporary Issues:

Changing demographic patterns

Migration, Diasporas and Impact on Family

Implications of new reproductive technologies

Work and family: The gendered division of labour within the home

Challenges to the normative model of family-The Young, the old and the Sandwiched generations: Life cycles and dependence on the family

Semester: IV
Credits: 4
Open to: All MA students

Course Objectives: This course aims to develop the ability of students to apply research methods to practical situations and to enhance their skill of analysis and presentation of data.

I. Conceptualizing Research

- a. Problem identification – The research question and its feasibility
- b. Procedure of literature review – Identification of relevant literature – Use of electronic database – Evaluation of literature.
- c. Identifying the research question and formulation of the research problem- Identifying variables.
- d. Refinement of the Research question- Formulation of objectives - Establishment of operational definitions.
- e. Development of working hypotheses-Types of hypotheses - Type I and Type II error- Determination of confidence levels
- d. Format of a research proposal - Preparation of research proposal

II. Planning the Study

- a. Preparation of research design
- b. Determining the sample design
- c. Identification of data collection methods.
- d. Designing of various research instruments - Pre-test and finalization.
- e. Construction of Attitude measurement scales such as Likert scales- General issues in Scaling-Calculation of scores.
- d. Carrying out a pilot study

III: Execution of the Study

- a. Collection of data – Selecting the method for data collection – Field work - Collection of data using attitudinal scales – On line data collection - Collection of qualitative data - Safeguards for mitigation of bias
- b. Preparing the data for analysis
- c. Computer aided statistical analysis of data. **
- d. Interpretation of results and generalization

IV: Reporting of the Results of the Study

- a.Principles of scientific reporting- Style and format of social science reporting

Dissertation

Offered by: Department of Sociology
Course number: Soc/404 (Compulsory Course)
Semester: IV
Credits: 4
Open to: All MA students

Course Objectives: As per the guidelines of Vidyasagar University, Dissertation is a mandatory part of the curriculum in Post Graduate Programme in Sociology. All students are encouraged to carry out independent field research having their own research problems in consultation with their supervisor. It involves identifying research problem, carrying out field research and preparing report. It will be followed by viva-voci on their respective projects. Here, the guidelines for the preparation of project is given underneath.

GUIDELINES AND FORMAT FOR PG SOCIOLOGY DISSERTATION

The structure for the MA dissertation is broad and dissertations vary in format. This is because of differences in the nature of the research question/s and the theoretical and research orientations of students or supervisors. However, there are certain elements that are obligatory in all dissertations, These include

A. Preliminaries

1. Title Page
2. Certificate-Certificate from 1) Self (declaration) 2) Guide must be included in the dissertation. The head of the institution/ department must countersign the dissertation.
3. Acknowledgment-Acknowledge all persons who have helped directly or indirectly from the start to the finish.

B. Text

1. Introduction & Theoretical frame work
2. Statement of the Problem
3. Relevance of the study
4. Review of Literature.
5. Objectives- General & specific (different aspects of general objective would form the specific objectives)
6. Hypotheses (hypotheses should be the assumptions regarding the findings linked to objectives and should bring out the relation between the dependent variable (s) and any one independent variable)
7. Research Design- mention the design and give the rationale for choosing it.
8. Variables – both dependent and independent
9. Pilot Study
10. Universe and unit
11. Sampling

12. Sources of data- primary and secondary
13. Tool of data collection-Pre-test
14. Tool of data collection-finalisation
15. Data Collection, Analysis and Interpretation and inferences.
16. Findings and suggestions

C Bibliography- Two commonly used styles are : 1) Vancouver Style : References are numbered according to their appearance in the text. The first author cited in the text is reference number 1 the second author cited is reference number 2 and so on. These numbers are written as Superscripts in the text at their relevant places and enlisted at the end serially.

2) Harvard Style : References are written in alphabetical order.

3) The standard formats for writing references/ bibliography are APA and MLA

D. Annexure is included at the last section of the dissertation and should include the tool used and other supplementary data like statistics, photographs etc

Further Details

The Title-It should be concise, but informative, the title must indicate the objective of the study and the place where the study was conducted.

Introduction-Introduction should contain the purpose of the study .Significance of the study has to be narrowed down from, what is already known of the topic, through, what is not known, to, identifying the unexplored aspect of the topic.

Review Of Literature

Care must be taken to include relevant references only. Evolve a consistent theme in the narration.

Methodology

It should contain Objectives of the study, Hypotheses, Universe, Sampling Frame, Sample size, Sampling procedure, Selection criteria, data collection procedure, instrument, and investigation.

Results

After methodology the next chapter deals with data analysis and interpretation. This is usually the longest section of the dissertation and should contain the analysis plan, findings, statistical measures employed, confidence interval, level of significance etc. Present the data wherever possible in the form of a) Graphics-histogram, bar diagram, pie chart, frequency polygon.

b) Illustrations. The hypotheses also may be tested in this chapter. For a qualitative study testing of hypotheses is not applicable

Discussion

The discussion should contain the relationships and generalizations shown by the results and show agreement or contrast with previously published work, as well as the rationale for your conclusions. This section should also state the limitations of the work and indicate the scope for further work.

The Summary & Conclusion:

The summary should concisely describe the research problem, the analysis and major findings. Suggestions and recommendations also can be given here.
